

Take part in bird survey

TOMORROW, Saturday, October 30, is the Big Bordon Bird Watch Day, when the Deadwater Valley Trust will be asking residents to spend a short time recording birds in their gardens, in woods or on commons.

The trust's new ranger Adrian Brockless is asking people to record the highest number of each bird species they see in a 20-minute period and put the figure in the box, below a picture of the appropriate species on the recording sheet.

Mr Brockless said: "You can get the recording sheet by downloading it from the trust's website www.deadwatervalleytrust.co.uk and e-mail it back to us.

"Most important of all, please enjoy it, and feel free to practise before Saturday.

"We will collate all the results and publish them as soon as we can."
